

UDALL LAW FIRM, LLP

Attorneys at Law

Health Care Law

For over five decades, Udall Law Firm has aggressively defended medical liability claims against physicians, hospitals, day surgery facilities, nursing homes, rehabilitation facilities, preferred provider organizations and other health care organizations and providers. In addition, our health law attorneys have represented a diverse range of medical and health product manufacturers and distributors, as well as medical device and pharmaceutical manufacturers in lawsuits alleging defective or dangerous products.

Our Health Care Law practice also include representation of health care providers, including dentists, medical doctors, osteopathic doctors, and chiropractors, before the various government regulatory boards.

Our health law attorneys utilize registered nurses who work as trained paralegals and investigators to provide an additional vital resource.

Udall's health law attorneys handle a spectrum of lawsuits, from traditional malpractice cases filed by individual claimants, to mass litigation involving hundreds of plaintiffs. Some of the high-profile, multiple-plaintiff cases our attorneys have handled include: silicone breast implants, Fen/Phen, health care facility fraud, conspiracy and abuse claims against major hospital organizations.
